

A yarn about making a health service complaint in Queensland

About Easy Read

Easier words with pictures to help explain some ideas.

A yarn about health complaints in QLD

An Aboriginal man holding an Aboriginal flag and a Torres Strait Islander woman holding a Torres Strait flag.

This guide is about making a complaint about a health service.

A complaint is when you tell someone you are not happy about something.

You can make a complaint about a health service, like:

- GP
- hospital
- health worker.

In Queensland, you can make a complaint to the Health Ombudsman.

The guide says what to do.

It says what you need to make a complaint.

You can ask for the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Complaints Advisor.

A complaint is when you are not happy and you tell someone the reason.

This guide says you can make a complaint about a health care service, like a:

- GP
- hospital
- health worker.

In Queensland, you can make a health service complaint to the Office of the Health Ombudsman.

The guide says what to do and information you need to make a complaint about a health service.

We trust this resource

We trust this resource because it is:

- Made to help, not for profit
- Made by people who know a lot about the topic
- Made in Australia

We've checked this resource, and you can follow our guide to know if health information is true and right for you.

This resource was made by

Office of the Health Ombudsman

The Office of the Health Ombudsman

A health ombudsman is an independent person or organisation that listens to complaints about health care and helps make sure people are treated fairly.

protects the health and safety of the people of Queensland.

- Visit